A. Economic Commission for Africa

2. The Seventh Joint Annual Meetings of the Economic Commission for Africa Conference of African Ministers of Finance, Planning and Economic Development (forty-seventh session of the Economic Commission for Africa), and African Union Conference of Ministers of Economy and Finance was held in Abuja on March 29 and 30. The Conference adopted a ministerial statement and approved a number of resolutions relating to the programme of work of the Economic Commission for Africa (ECA), summaries of which are set out below for the attention of the Council.

Summary of the Ministerial Statement

3. The African Ministers of Finance, Planning and Economic Development deliberated on the theme, “Industrialization for inclusive and transformative development in Africa”, with the shared conviction that industrialization is one of the most viable paths to employment-generating growth and development, and a core prerequisite for the structural transformation of Africa. They saluted efforts made by African Governments to increase the domestic processing of agricultural and mineral raw materials, nurture upstream and downstream linkages, foster national and regional value chains, revive local manufacturing activities and promote the competitiveness of national economies.

4. The Ministers committed to working closely with counterparts responsible for industrial policies and with other relevant line ministries with a view to forging an integrated approach within the governmental system to overcome the various constraints to unleashing the full potential of Africa as a key industrial hub. To that end, they pledged to address the problem of securing long-term financing for investing in manufacturing, including by reviving development banking and recalibrating financial markets to make them more supportive of Africa’s industrialization efforts.

5. The Conference further pledged to give greater attention to expanding and strengthening local entrepreneurship, removing the various structural obstacles to redressing Africa’s infrastructural deficits, and accelerating the efforts that have been made to date to remove practices that increase transaction costs to the detriment of industrial development. In particular, they called on the relevant arms of African Governments to encourage the development of female entrepreneurship as a credible strategy for inclusive growth.

6. The Ministers called on the African Union Commission, ECA and the African Development Bank (ADB) to work closely together to ensure a better interface between the Comprehensive Africa Agriculture Development Programme, the Africa Mining Vision, the Action Plan for the Accelerated Industrial Development of Africa, the Programme for Infrastructure Development in Africa, the Social Policy Framework for Africa, the Continental Free Trade Area, the Action Plan for Boosting Intra-African Trade and other related continental policy standards, frameworks and strategies, to ensure that they complement and reinforce one another in pursuit of the common goal of inclusive continental transformation. They pledged support for efforts to deepen South-South cooperation given its potential benefits for Africa's industrial transformation.

7. The Ministers commended the adoption of the Common African Position on the Post-2015 Development Agenda and welcomed the overarching goal of the Common African Position, which is to place Africa's structural transformation goals at the heart of the post-2015 global development agenda. They strongly urged the international community, including development partners, to embrace the Common African Position when formulating the global agenda.

8. Ministers called on the African Union Commission and ECA to facilitate the process of making the Conference more action-oriented, and underpinned by evidence-based research; and mandated the Commissions to generate the necessary documentation on the basis of sound statistical information and analyses.

Role of renewable energy in Africa's industrialization and economic transformation (resolution 913 (XLVII))

9. The Conference of Ministers, inter alia, requested the African Union Commission, ECA, the regional economic communities and other relevant organizations to support member States in mobilizing the necessary financial and technical resources to promote renewable energy at the regional and national levels and to optimize investments in energy generation and transmission infrastructures, with a view to increasing the overall share of renewable energy. The Conference further resolved to ensure transformative industrialization in Africa through the development of a cutting-edge renewable energy sector that facilitates Africa's efforts to promote a green economy.

African regional integration index (resolution 914 (XLVII))

10. Noting with appreciation the work currently under way by ECA and the African Union Commission to assess the implementation of Africa's regional integration agenda, and taking into consideration key publications, such as the joint publication of ECA, the African Union Commission and ADB on assessing regional integration in Africa, the Conference, inter alia, called upon ECA and the African Union Commission to take all necessary steps to develop and use an African regional integration index, and urged them to work closely with the regional economic communities in the development and use of the African regional integration index.

11. The Conference further urged governments to scale up their commitment to and support for the accelerated attainment of the objectives of Africa's regional integration by mainstreaming agreed plans and programmes into national development policies, strategies and budgets, and undertook to work in close collaboration with other relevant ministries at the national level, to support the successful realization of the African regional integration index and Africa's regional integration in general.

New continent-wide initiative on gender equality and women's empowerment (resolution 915 (XLVII))

12. Noting with appreciation the past and ongoing work that ECA, in collaboration with other partners, has carried out to promote gender equality and the empowerment of women in Africa, the Ministers, inter alia, welcomed the proposed continent-wide initiative for gender equality and women's empowerment, which is aimed at contributing significantly to changing women's lives by promoting gender equality and women's social, economic and political rights, ensuring that the economic contributions of women are recognized and given due value, fostering women's economic empowerment by promoting women's entrepreneurship within Africa's commodity-based industrialization and through the accompanying value addition, and ensuring that women are provided with quality social services, including social protection and social security.

13. The Conference further committed to supporting the full implementation of the initiative through the mobilization of regional and international resources and other measures, expressed its strong political and financial support through the regular budget and public expenditure to ensure the successful implementation of the initiative and urged ECA and the African Union Commission to report on progress made on the initiative during the eighth Joint Annual Meetings of the Economic Commission for Africa Conference of African Ministers of Finance, Planning and Economic Development and African Union Conference of Ministers of Economy and Finance.

15. The Ministers requested the continued engagement of the Chair of the Panel in carrying out advocacy work to disseminate the Panel's findings and to galvanize support from a broad coalition of partners to implement the Panel's recommendations, and entrusted ECA, in collaboration with the African Union Commission and other partners, with disseminating the findings and recommendations of the Panel and undertaking further research and capacity-development activities in that regard within the continent and at the global level.

Country profiles (resolution 917 (XLVII))

16. The Conference noted the need for specific country profiles that focus on structural transformation of the African economies and recognized that the country profiles can provide an effective vehicle for ECA to produce and disseminate country- and region-specific policy analysis and recommendations on structural transformation of African economies. The Conference therefore, inter alia, adopted the country profile template proposed by ECA, committed to improving collaboration between African countries' national statistical systems and ECA in the production of, access to and dissemination of data and country profiles, and urged ECA to scale up its efforts to strengthen national statistical systems, with a view to improving the availability, quality and timeliness of statistics in African countries.

Green economy and structural transformation in Africa (resolution 919 (XLVII))

19. The Conference acknowledged that, for Africa to embark fully on a green economy trajectory, it will require the mobilization of new financial resources from public and private sources. They recognized the importance of science, new technologies and innovation in achieving a green economy in Africa. The Conference therefore, inter alia, called upon the African Union Commission, ECA, ADB and other development partners to support African countries in strengthening their capacity to formulate, adopt and implement inclusive green economy policies, and invited multilateral agencies, bilateral partners, foundations, research institutions and universities to work with the African Union Commission, ECA, ADB and the United Nations Environment Programme (UNEP) to provide technical assistance and financial resources to enable member States to usher in a favourable business environment.

The Conference also requested ministries of economy and finance and ministries of development and planning to create more incentives for private-sector investments along all agricultural value chains, and invited member States to strengthen public-private partnerships to facilitate and channel private-sector investments, both domestic and external, in agro-industries.

Industrialization for inclusive and transformative development in Africa (resolution 922 (XLVII))

21. The Ministers noted that industrialization is the route that developed and developing countries alike have embarked upon to pursue employment-generating growth and development, due to its immense potential to create upstream and downstream linkages with the rest of the economy and create more high-income jobs. They requested ECA and the African Union Commission, together with the regional economic communities and other partner institutions, to cement industrialization in the post-2015 development agenda and the Agenda 2063 framework, and to continue to research how countries can rework industrial policy as a means of achieving sustainable and inclusive economic transformation.

The Ministers commended Heads of States and Governments on adopting the Common African Position on the Post-2015 Development Agenda and, inter alia, requested member States to mainstream the Common African Position into their national development plans and ensure that its overarching goal of eradicating poverty in all its forms is the key message in the intergovernmental negotiation process on the post-2015 development agenda. The Ministers took note of the report of the African Union Commission on postal financial services in Africa, including strategies to increase the inclusion of low-income populations and the vastness of the postal sector and its important role in providing access to financial services for an estimated 10 per cent of the adult population. Consequently, the Ministers, inter alia, mandated the African Union Commission, in collaboration with the Pan-African Postal Union, the regional economic communities, subregional postal organizations and the member States, to improve the performance of postal financial services, support information dissemination and best practices and promote innovation.

Alternative sources of financing for the African Union (resolution 926 (XLVII))

28. Cognizant of the principle that the African Union needs adequate, sustainable and predictable financial resources in order to fund its programmes, including those on peace and security, and to reduce its dependency on external partners, the Conference, inter alia, decided to set up a ministerial working group operating under the leadership of the African Union Commission, with the technical support of ECA, that comprises the following countries: Algeria, Côte d'Ivoire, Democratic Republic of the Congo, Egypt, Ethiopia, Guinea, Kenya, Libya, Mauritius, Niger, Nigeria, Rwanda, Sierra Leone, South Africa and Tunisia.
